KENTUCKY RECEIVES VISITING EDITORS

St. Louis Society Women Assist at Bluegrass State Reception to Newspaper Men.

RED APPLES GIVEN AWAY.

Pyramid of "Winesaps" and Four Varieties of Punch Features of Entertainment for Press Representatives.

Large red apples from the Blue Grass State and four varieties of punch of four different degrees of potency formed the distinctive feature of a reception given to visiting newspaper men by the Kentucky Commission at the World's Fair yesterday afternoon, and among those who assisted in receiving and serving the punch were several St. Louis society women who formerly lived in Kentucky.

The Kentucky building, which is situated near the Palace of Mines and Metallurgy, was conspicuous because a dozen crimson flags emblazoned with "Kentucky" in white letters pointed the way to the red apple pyramid and the punch bowls to visiting editors, who had not become thoroughly familiar with the grounds. The interior of the building was decorated with cut flowers and potted plants, and the statue of George Rogers Clark, which stands in the center of the rotunda, was draped in the Stars and Stripes.

In the receiving line were Secretary Robert E. Hughes, Mrs. Bertha Miller Smith, hostess of the Kentucky building; Judge R. L. Duff, of Morgantown, former chief justice of the Kentucky court of appeals and at present a member of the Kentucky Commission; Mrs. Guffy, Mrs. Fannie A. Carothers of Bardonia, Miss Mary Burton of Lebanon, Judge Acher G. Caruth of Louisville, a member of the commission, and Mrs. Breckinridge Jones of St. Louis, who formerly lived in Kentucky. Colonel and Mrs. S. M. T. Price of St. Louis also assisted in receiving. Colonel Price is a native of Kentucky.

The punch bowls were presided over by Mrs. W. G. Lackey, whose husband came to St. Louis from Kentucky several years ago; Mrs. W. W. Boyd, who was born and reared in Scott County, which lies in the heart of the Blue Grass region; Miss Mary Burton of Lebanon and Miss Mabel Price, who accompanied Colonel S. M. T. Price, former Governor Thomas T. Crittenden, President Francis and other former Kentuckians, who went to Frankfort two years ago when the Louisiana Purchase Exposition appropriation bill was before the legislature.

The punch bowls were situated at the four corners of the reception hall. At the center of the hall, a large punch bowl, which was served by Lackey, was placed. At the second Miss Price served punch which was slightly "spiced." At the third, Miss Burton served claret punch, and at the fourth, Mrs. Boyd served punch which was colored by the native beverage. Near the last punch bowl, but in another room, was a small mahogany buffet, which contained several brands of Kentucky whisky adulterated, and to this buffet Kentucky Colonel and Mrs. S. M. T. Price, whose tastes did not run to beverages as weak as punch, were conducted. A fruit bowl of mint, cut from the center of a brook which runs through a blue grass pasture and kept in cold storage for the occasion, was in evidence.

MISSOURI EDITOR CONCEIVES SCHEME

Walter Williams Takes Initiative in Formation of the World's Press Parliament.

MAY BECOME PERMANENT.

First Session to Be Held To-Night in Festival Hall—Secretary Hay Guest at First Reception.

PROGRAMME FOR WORLD'S PRESS PARLIAMENT TO-DAY.

Music.
Address—A. Monprofit, Le Figaro, Paris.
Introduction of permanent presiding officer, Sir Hugh Gilzean-Reid, London.

Walter Williams of Columbia, Mo., a country editor, is responsible for bringing together the greatest convention of newspaper men the world has ever known, and will ever know, unless the Press Parliament is made permanent. The editor of a country newspaper is responsible for the assembling in Festival Hall to-night, for its first session, of the parliament which has brought newspaper men to St. Louis from thirty-three foreign countries and from every State and Territory of the United States.

Out of this scheme of this country editor there may grow one of the greatest organizations of newspaper men for the improvement of the profession and the building of the people of the whole world that the world has ever witnessed, and its ramifications for good are so extensive that no man can tell even approximately the beneficial results that will accrue from thus bringing together the editors of the greatest journals in the world.

Two years ago Mr. Williams went abroad for pleasure, and incidentally to do what he could for the newspaper. He spoke of it frequently on his trip and it met with the approval of editors everywhere. He accepted of the International Press Association in Switzerland and invited the delegates to St. Louis, and they accepted. His missionary tour grew the Press Parliament.

When Mr. Williams returned to St. Louis he gave the scheme actual life. He outlined the plan to the newspaper men of St. Louis, and they adopted it, and the result was an Executive Committee, as follows:
Henry King, editor of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, chairman; Charles W. Knapp, editor and publisher of the St. Louis Republic, vice chairman; John H. Kenna, director of the International Press Association, secretary; and others.

This committee elected the following officers: President, Sir Hugh Gilzean-Reid, London; Vice President, Charles W. Knapp, St. Louis; Secretary, John H. Kenna, St. Louis; Treasurer, Henry King, St. Louis; and others.

ing line. There was a big attendance of newspaper men and citizens generally, and all of the 200 foreign newspaper men and many of the foreign Commissioners to the Fair were present. The music was the national airs of the different foreign countries.
